

Grow tomatoes in pots this summer

You can grow tomato plants in pots on your patio or balcony. You can plant them from mid- to late May. But watch out for frost.

Good plants for pots

Here are two types of tomatoes to grow in pots. Grow one of each.

Cherry tomatoes

- Buy: Sweet 100, Sweet Million or Sungold
- Height: tall
(Use a tomato cage or stakes and string.)
- Size of tomatoes: 2 cm (1 in.)
- Prune: Pinch off or cut off some new shoots during the summer.

Bush tomatoes

- Buy: Tumbler or Patio
- Height: short and bushy
- Size of tomatoes: 5 cm (2 in.)
- No pruning
- No cage or stakes

Photo: Hole's Greenhouses

➔ More on page 2

Adapted from Lois Hole's Tomato Favorites • Photos: isolated cherry tomatoes: iStockphoto; other unlabelled photos: Bev Burke • Art—new shoot, pinch off, pots with holes, potting soil: Nola Johnston; tomato plants, thermometer, frost damage: Guy Parsons; stakes, string, tomato cage, fertilizer: Corinna Ruhl; sun, water: iStockphoto

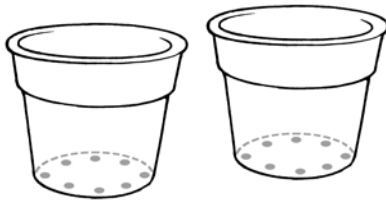

This article first appeared in the May—June 2006 issue of English Express.

You will need

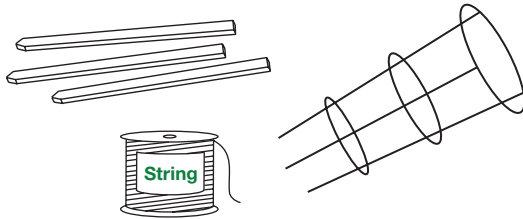

- 1 cherry tomato plant
- 1 Tumbler or Patio tomato plant

- 2 large pots
—30 cm (12 in.) across

- 1 tomato cage
or stakes and string
—for cherry tomato plant

potting soil

Note: Use a light soil mix in your pots. The bag might say soilless potting mix or potting soil. Do not use garden soil.

Before you plant

Your tomato plants were growing in a greenhouse before you bought them.

How to you prepare them to live outside? You harden them off for 7 to 10 days.

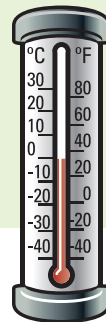

Then you plant them outside in big pots.

How to harden off plants

☞ During the day, put the tomato plants outside in a partly sunny spot.

☞ If it might freeze at night, cover your plants. Or you can bring them inside. Frost will damage the plants.

☞ More on page 3

How to plant

1 Put potting soil into the pot.

2 Make a hole in the soil.

Leave 5 cm (2 in.) of space here.

3 Take the tomato plant out of its container.

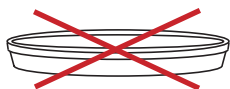

4 Pinch off small, lower leaves.

5 Put the plant in the hole. Press the soil down firmly.

Note: If the plant is tall and thin, plant it deeper in the hole.

6 Water well. Don't put saucers under your pots.

After you plant

Tomato plants like sun

Put your plants in the sun. Tomatoes grow best in a hot, sunny place away from the wind.

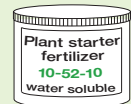

Water every day

Water your tomato plants every day during the summer. On hot days, water twice a day. Water the soil, not the leaves.

Fertilize

Fertilize your tomato plants once a week. Use fertilizer that you mix with water. Look for numbers on the labels.

☞ Use 10-52-10 for the first three weeks.

☞ Use 20-20-20 or 15-15-30 after that.

Frost kills

Protect your plants from frost. Cover them with old towels, sheets, blankets or cardboard boxes.

